hen my father first arrived in Michigan, the U.S. Census only counted about thirty Filipinos in the entire state," says Joseph Galura. "If you believe the government's figures, in 2010 there were 20,825 Filipinos in Metro Detroit alone-exponential growth."

Galura's father, Atilano, came to Michigan from the Philippines in 1928 as a self-supporting student, by way of Hawaii and California. He later worked as a production engineer during World War II. Galura's mother arrived in Detroit in 1954 as part of a postwar wave of medical professionals from the islands, doing her internship as a clinical dietitian at what is now Wayne State University. Today, Galura lives right on the Ann Arbor-Pittsfield Township border and teaches at the U-M School of Social Work; this spring, his daughter Genevra Galura graduated from U-M as a Doctor of Pharmacy.

For almost a century, the U.S. limited or even banned immigrants from most Asian countries. Atilano Galura was able to stay only because at the time, the Philippines were a U.S. colony. But since the door opened in the mid 1960s, growing numbers of Asians and Asian Americans of many ethnicities have made Ann Arbor home, drawn by opportunities at U-M, the auto industry, the healthcare industry, and family.

Today, Ann Arbor has one of the largest Asian American communities in the state. According to U.S. Census Bureau estimates, last year "Asian alone" residents were the city's largest minority, at almost 16 percent of the population (plus some portion of the 4 percent identified as two or more races). That's up from less than 12 percent in 2000. However, mirroring national trends, Asians are not new here.

"The first Michiganders of Japanese descent came to the state in the late 1800s," says Mika Kennedy, U-M PhD Candidate in English and curator of the recent "Exiled to Motown: Japanese Americans in Detroit" exhibit at the Ann Arbor District Library. A U-M online exhibit identifies the first Japanese student at the university as Saiske Tagai, from 1872 to 1874. The first Chinese students, Mary Stone (Shi Mei-yu) and Ida Kahn (Kang Ai-de), attended from 1892 to 1896, and were among the first Chinese women ever to become Western-trained physicians.

"Their future career," said then-U-M president James B. Angell, "will be watched with every expectation of their eminent

After Stone and Kahn returned to China as medical missionaries, U-M Regent Levi Lewis Barbour met them there and was so impressed that he created a scholarship for Asian women, the Barbour Scholarship, which was instrumental in bringing many Asian women to study at U-M and which continues to support Asian women studying at U-M today.

🛊 Joseph Galura (below) says that when his father, Atilano, came to Michigan in 1928, the U.S. Census counted only about thirty Filipinos in the entire state. By 2010, there were more than 20,000 just in Metro Detoit.

CITY OF ANN ARBOR POPULATION

★ Changing census categories make it hard to determine Ann Arbor's historic Asian population, but this U-M chart is a snapshot of an increasingly diverse city.

Angell had encouraged the enrollment of Chinese students ever since traveling to China to negotiate the Angell Treaty of 1880. According to an article on the U-M's heritage website by James Tobin, the treaty temporarily suspended immigration of Chinese workers while also offering protections to Chinese already in America. Though it was soon superseded by the much harsher Chinese Exclusion Act, after the U.S.'s participation in putting down the Boxer Rebellion of 1899-1901, Angell urged American lawmakers to return its share of China's indemnity to create a generous fund to support more Chinese students at U.S. colleges and universities. Many came to Michigan, broadening U-M's relationship with China.

Military Intelligence Service (MIS). "Dr. Joseph K. Yamagiwa was a Japanese language professor at U-M during WWII, and was selected to head the MIS school at U-M," says Kennedy. "The program operated from 1943 to 1944. Students of the U-M language program were white, but the instructors were Issei and Nisei [first-and second-generation Japanese Americans] that came from the camps." Yamagiwa went on to oversee the creation of U-M Department of Far Eastern Languages and Literature.

After the war, the War Brides Act allowed U.S. military veterans to marry and bring back spouses from other countries.

Students from the Philippines arrived after the Spanish American War. "Some sources say Santiago Artiaga, who graduated from the University of Michigan with a degree in civil engineering in 1904, was the first Filipino to study in the U.S.," says Galura, who collaborated with the U-M Museum of Natural History to reimagine its permanent Philippines display. "However, the University's relationship to the Philippines during this period could be described as fraught. Prior to the Spanish American War, U-M faculty were doing research in the Philippines. When the Philippines became a U.S. colony, one researcher in particular, Dean C. Worcester, was appointed to one of the highest positions of authority in the colonial government."

World War II brought many changes that helped shape the Asian American community. While Japanese American families were incarcerated in concentration camps, the U-M hosted one of the Japanese language schools for the secret

Because Chinese and Filipina women had not generally been allowed into the U.S., and because many states (although not Michigan) had laws prohibiting interracial marriage, this was the first time that many Chinese and Filipino American men were able to marry and start families in America. The GI Bill also made it possible for many Chinese, Filipino, and Japanese American veterans to attend college.

hey were joined by new arrivals after passage of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1965, which emphasized family reunification and attracting skilled labor to the U.S. As in the rest of the nation, the population of Ann Arbor saw a jump in many different Asian American ethnicities between 1960 and 1970, followed by another jump in the 1970s and 1980s due to a national medical personnel shortage and the resettlement of Southeast Asian refugees.

from Taiwan to study mechanical engineering at the University of Missouri, then moved to Chicago, and then to Ann Arbor where his father worked as a mechanical engineer at Bechtel and his mother worked at a local bank.

Yuan grew up on the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti border "Our neighborhood, which seemed like the entirety of the world then, was pretty mixed-Southeast Asian, Asian American, African American, Caucasian," says the multidisciplinary artist, cofounder of IS/LAND contemporary Asian American performing arts collective. "I really can't say that I felt the presence of an Asian American community outside of my parent's circle of friends-it was more of a mixed paradise, really-with all kinds of kids playing together."

And new people continue to come. "Most contemporary Japanese coming to Michigan have come for jobs in the automotive or related industries," says Kennedy. "Toyota and Subaru both have R&D centers in Ann Arbor." Korean automaker Hyundai also has a large technical center

The governmental preference for credentialed immigrants encouraged the model minority stereotype that casts Asian Americans as meek, quiet, and good at math and science. However, Asian Americans were and continue to be politically active and leaders in the community.

In the 1970s, Asian American students and the East Wind student organization joined other U-M students of color in protests and sit-ins for civil rights and ethnic studies. Some of those same students became national civil rights leaders in organizing for justice for Chinese American Vincent Chin, who was beaten to death by two autoworkers in 1982.

Sang-Yong Nam came from Korea in 1964, with only $4 in his pocket, for graduate school at U-M College of Architecture and Design. According to the website of U-M Nam Center for Korean Studies, "He found only a few books about Korea in the U-M library and a lack of Korean art in the U-M Museum of Art. It became his dream to correct the disparity and make U-M a premier center for Korean studies." After graduating in 1966, Nam invested in campus real estate and eventually became the largest benefactor of the center, pledging more than $4 million and making it one of the top programs in the country.

★ Ayesha Ghazi-Edwin (with husband Mike Edwin and son Ash) grew up in Ann Arbor—and after living in Detroit and Grosse Pointe, moved back to raise her family.

hen Ayesha Ghazi-Edwin first arrived in Ann Arbor in 1988, she was placed in English as a Second Language (ESL) classes from third to fifth grades at Northside and Logan elementary schools. Though Ghazi-Edwin was born in London, England, and spoke English as her first language, someone just assumed she needed ESL instruction because her parents—both clinicians and professors at the U-M medical school—were originally from India.

"I actually loved it," says Ghazi-Edwin.
"We went on field trips, did fun activities, etc. I was in the advanced reading class, but also in ESL—go figure! My older sister finally found out about it and was livid. She told my mom, "This is racism!" and they finally pulled me."

After graduating from Huron High, Ghazi-Edwin went to Albion College. As one of only three Asian Americans in her class, she began to appreciate having grown up in a diverse community and how her racial and ethnic background helped shape her identity. After coming back to U-M for grad school, she began to find her place in politics, organizing, and immigrant activism. She's now a U-M social work lecturer and CEO of an Asian American civil rights group, American Citizens for Justice.

Taiwanese American community leader and retired librarian Amy Seetoo first came to Ann Arbor in 1980 from University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign to work at UMI (predecessor of ProQuest). She watched many successive waves of Chinese and Taiwanese come to Ann Arbor, shifting with the political priorities of the day. In 1994, she founded the nonprofit Chinese American Society of Ann Arbor (CASAA) to bring together Chinese from Taiwan, Chinese from China, and non-Chinese people.

"In 1957, the only Chinese restaurant in town was Leo Ping on Main St.," she says. Now the City Guide lists more than seventy Asian eateries (see p. 91), including Indian, Japanese, Korean, Malaysian, Pakistani, Thai, and Vietnamese cuisine. Then there are the Asian markets, news-hen Ayesha Ghazi-Edwin first papers, language schools, churches (see p. arrived in Ann Arbor in 1988, 75), and nonprofit organizations.

As communities grow, they are becoming more diverse as well.

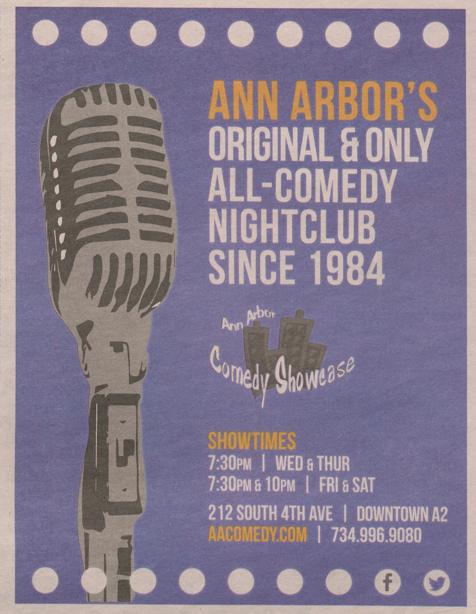

"Back in the day there were a lot of Asian Americans, and most of them, like my family, had immigrated here to work at the university. The community is more socioeconomically diverse now," says Ghazi-Edwin. "I remember Asian Americans being more segregated by race, ethnicity, or religion while I was growing up. Today, especially among the young folks, I see Asian Americans organizing and socializing across ethnicities, be it Chinese, Indian, Vietnamese, etc., and religious identities. It's great."

In 1912, a letter to the editor of the Detroit Free Press decried an interracial marriage between a Chinese international student and an "American girl," presumably white. The letter writer wrote that if U-M continued to accept "Oriental" (meaning Asian) and "Hindoo" (as it was spelled then and referred to South Asians regardless of religion) international students, white women students would inevitably be drawn to them, which in turn would make parents less inclined to send their daughters to U-M.

Today, however, for many, Ann Arbor's diversity makes it a reason to live here.

"Ann Arbor has transformed dramatically from the late 80's," says Yuan, who moved back to Ann Arbor from Chicago three years ago for his wife's work. "Gone are the DIY-ethos independent stores I frequented as a kid—Dave's Comics, Harry's Army Surplus, Schoolkids Records—replaced by more chains. Having said that, I love that Underground Sounds, Encore, Palm Palace, Zingerman's are around and killing it—and don't get me started on how much I love Ann Arbor District Library and all of the green space. Good times!"

After living in Detroit and Grosse Pointe, Ghazi-Edwin also recently moved back to Ann Arbor to raise her family. "I really wanted my son to grow up with the same diversity, tolerance, and acceptance that I experienced," she says. "I love the east side, but nowhere really compares to Ann Arbor in terms of cultural and intellectual progressiveness."

Neighborhoods

A running joke in Michigan is that Ann Arbor is 25 square miles surrounded by reality. At over 120,000 residents this year, we're perched between a sprawling metropolis and green farm fields, with more Buddhist temples than Catholic churches, and more coffeehouses per capita than almost any other noncoastal American locale. Many University of Michigan graduates used to head for Chicago or the coasts after graduating, but an influx of new economy firms has kept more of them closer to home-and living in a resurgent downtown. Ann Arbor votes so reliably for Democrats that Republicans rarely even bother to run, and for local races it's the August primary rather than the November general election that's hard-fought.

The city's quirky reputation is accompanied by an unusual combination of cultural attractions, active family neighborhoods, and livability that keeps Ann Arbor in many top ten "Best Cities in America" lists. In most Ann Arbor neighborhoods kids can walk to their elementary school or a nearby park. Though many residents are alarmed about sprawl and traffic congestion, Ann Arbor retains a vital downtown and a bevy of fine neighborhoods with a wide diversity of housing stock

This section describes homes and condos by neighborhood, as well as cohousing and manufactured housing options in the Ann Arbor school district (which goes well beyond the Neighborhoods are listed alphabetically based on elementary school attendance areas.

Realtors reported selling 1,222 single-family homes in the Ann Arbor School District between June 1, 2018 and May 31, 2019, down 4 percent from the same period a year earlier. This graph divides those sales into six broad price ranges. On the following pages, nineteen additional graphs break down sales within each elementary school's attendance boundaries. The median selling price is also listed (half cost more, half cost less) and the median number of days a home was on accepted an offer. The figof Realtors' reports 'after removing duplicates and/guarantee the accuracy of its data, but it is generally reliable.

As we've seen for a couple of years now, low inventory is pushing up prices. The median selling price climbed 6 percent, from $364,000 to $385,000. The median price per square foot of finished, above-grade living space rose 8 percent, from $205 to $221. But competition among buyers was a little less intense: the median number of days on market before an offer was accepted increased from nine to twelve.

The biggest district, Bryant-Pattengill, again had the most sales, 128. Its median price increased 11 percent, from $355,000 to $394,450. Only Northside, King, and Bach saw faster increases. Bryant-Pattengill also matched Burns Park for the highest dollar volume, at $53 million, though the more affordable district took forty-one more sales to reach that number. Wines matched Burns Park's eighty-seven transactions and at $49.5 million wasn't far behind in dollar volume.

Angell usually records the fewest sales, but this year its forty-nine transactions seemed frantic compared to Northside, which recorded just thirty-three. Though Angell's median fell to $737,000 from $750,000, it's still the highest in the district. Just one home sold in Angell's area for under $400,000, while just one home sold for over $400,000 in Carpenter's, where the median price was $277,500. Pittsfield and Mitchell again turned in the lowest medians, at $267,500 and $270,750, respectively.

-Sue Maguire

Blocks of tree-canopied streets and welltended classic old homes set around a historic park and school-as well as its location near both U-M's campus and downtown-make Burns Park one of the city's most desirable neighborhoods.

ABBOT

Smaller ranch homes abound on the flat, quiet streets of Ann Arbor's affordable and family-friendly Abbot neighborhood on the northwest side. North and west of M-14, newer rural residential development mixes with farmland between Wagner and Zeeb; these Scio Township lots are typically big enough to require a riding lawn mower.

access ramps and the commercial strip along Maple and Stadium, which includes 2 groceries: upscale Plum Market and discount ALDI. A major apartment complex, 328-unit Arbor Landings, is discreetly tucked away off Dexter west of Maple. At its westernmost point, Abbot's district dips south of Jackson to take in most of the Scio Farms manufactured home community (a few blocks in this neighborhood are assigned to Haisley School).

Abbot schoolchildren graduate to Forsythe Middle School and Skyline High.

ALLEN

Allen Elementary serves varied neighborhoods of sturdy brick ranches, colonials, and tri-levels on the east and southeast sides of the city. Allen School itself lies behind historic Cobblestone Farm and year-round city recreation favorite Buhr Park, which features a swimming pool, outdoor ice rink, and sports fields. Many small ranches here were built in the 1950s as the area was hooked up to Ann Arbor water and sewer services.

The single-family neighborhoods north of Washtenaw have a split personality: unpaved streets and large, wooded lots give the homes on Chalmers and Woodland a country feel, in contrast to the bigger, newer houses of the Woodcreek subdivision. The same contrast is visible north along the river, where tract mansions tower over the smaller, architect-designed homes of the Thornoaks sub, now preserved as

Running through Allen

The real feel on this January morning is 4 degrees Fahrenheit and I'm trudging up a hill through a light snow on my way to "the corner." The collection of brightly colored running apparel appears in the distance. I'm joining neighbors for a run through the local streets and parks.

For the past few years, this group of aging runners—and walkers—enjoys getting in a few miles on most Saturday mornings in the Allen neighborhood. Our children now post the fast times; they even join in during fairer weather. While some of us still train for endurance races, performance is not the main driver.

The slight nudge of peer pressure encourages us to make time for ourselves before our active and scheduled weekends take off. What I truly value is the welcoming and supportive feel of building relationships while burning calories and waving to other neighbors as we go.

a Midcentury Modern historic district. South of Michigan Ave. is the Hickory Pointe subdivision with its 65 homes, 5 parks, and swim club. The Allen district includes the ranch-style 103-unit Carleton Court apartments at Packard and Platt. Students also are bused in from 3 huge rental complexes south of I-94: the 582-unit Pines of Cloverlane and 440-unit Hamptons of Cloverlane, both off Michigan Ave., and the affordable 609-unit University Townhouses co-op on Ellsworth.

It's said that walking or running in a new place is the best way to experience it. My mental map of this part of town has been rewired on a few occasions when a new running route connects streets that weren't previously on my radar. And then there are the conversations about local businesses, developments, real estate, schools, and the hottest Nextdoor topics. Picture a moving front porch conversation and that's our Saturday morning group.

What began as a small group of neighbors in a four-block radius has grown as word spreads among neighbors and friends of friends. Technically, we're an Allen/Pattengill/Bryant neighborhood group at this point. A neighborhood Turkey Trot spun off of the weekend jaunts a few years back and boasts fifty or sixty trotters who complete a one mile or 5k route through County Farm Park and environs. Like our regular meet-ups, it ends at someone's house for optional coffee, snacks, and more conversation.

If our slow-moving train has an engineer, then that title belongs to James Pauer, a lifelong runner and environmental engineer with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. His military experience in his native South Africa prepared him well for cajoling us from our warm beds on cold winter mornings with email reminders that bear a touch of friendly drill sergeant. During our Saturday outings, I'm happily reminded of Ann Arbor's rich international community when James's Afrikaans accent combines with Adrienne's Kiwi, Sandro's Spanish, Joe's Queen's English, and Lorenzo's Italian.

My husband and I moved to the Allen neighborhood fifteen years ago. There's so much about our neighborhood that we've come to appreciate like proximity to parks, Trader Joe's, local shops and coffeehouses, and our public schools. But it's the close friendships we've made with neighbors that make us want to stay.

-Elizabeth Riggs

Depending on their neighborhood, Allen grads go on to Scarlett or Tappan, and from there to Huron or Pioneer.

Bordering on the 123-acre Nichols Arboretum, a wooded natural area sloping down to the Huron River, Angell in its northern reaches is parklike itself. The riverside areas are among the city's most expensive neighborhoods, with stately mansions and large, secluded homes.

East of the Arb, the streets north of Geddes are lined with one-of-a-kind homes from the decades on either side of World War II. Perched on the slopes overlooking the riv-

International Night at Angell

Forty nationalities of kids are represented at Angell Elementary on Ann Arbor's near east side. So when International Night comes around each spring to Angell, it isn't just a theoretical exercise. They're bringing a taste of home to Ann Arbor.

But for the months leading up to big event, the road can be bumpy for some incoming students, many of whom come to this country with graduate student parents who live in U-M's Northwood townhouses. Principal Gary Court notes that it's not just a matter of learning English-kids have to adjust to American mannerisms, too. He recalled a non-English-speaking new student who had a physical altercation with another player on the soccer field during recess. Court called over another child who spoke the boy's language to explain their playground rules. Theough he didn't understand the conversation, he noticed some eye-rolling-crazy Americans! Thankfully, kids tend to go with the flow, he says, and the crisis was resolved.

Angell's welcoming, inclusive atmosphere builds global friendships. Court says connections made at school are maintained via Skype and email long after the international students return to their home countries.

The highlight of Angell's year is International Night, organized every spring by parent volunteers. The Parade of Nations, formatted like opening night at the Olympics, draws up to 500 people, far beyond the capacity of the school auditorium, so it is held at a neighboring church. As the Olympic theme song is played, families and students dressed in folk outfits march into the room in alphabetical order. Iraqi and Israeli flags stand side by side, just as in the Olympics. Mr. Court welcomes each nation and shares factoids about them, which the children love.

Everyone then returns to Angell to browse wide-ranging exhibits created by students, often with the help of parents native to that country. Students, parents, and guests roam the building from room to room. Each student receives a passport to be stamped, followed by a scavenger hunt.

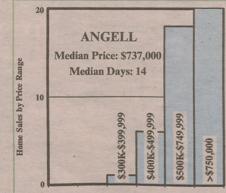

The World Market is set up in the gym with food preparation and craft demonstrations. The most popular event is the World Buffet. (Mr. Court points out that every lunchtime at Angell is a world buffet, too, with children bringing familiar food from home.)

Each fall another new cohort of international families arrives at the University of Michigan. Parents will come to Angell School orientation to learn about the English as a Second Language classroom, how the school buses work, how American school kids dress, and other practical needs. "We've been doing this for a long time," Court says. "We're good at this."

er are newer custom-built houses, many in mid-century modern styles. Many, including the Frank Lloyd Wright-designed Palmer House on Orchard Hills Dr. (you can now stay overnight there), are architectural showpieces. South of Geddes are the winding, wooded streets of another top-dollar neighborhood, Ann Arbor Hills, also with many custom-designed homes.

The Angell district reaches north of the river to include the modernist 360-unit Huron Towers, built in 1960 and constructed using the thennew lift-slab system devised by U-M architecture prof Philip Youtz, and U-M family housing on North Campus. Children also are bused in from the huge 598-unit Golfside Lakes apartment complex east of US-23.

Angell grads go on to Tappan and Scarlett middle schools and meet up again at Huron High.

BACH

With their porch swings and bountiful frontyard gardens, the homes of the city's Old West Side—just a short walk from downtown—welcome passersby to the heart of the Bach Elementary area, which boasts 13 historic districts within its borders. Most homes are small Victorians originally built by 19th-century German workmen. Many have been painstakingly restored. In exchange for some of the highest prices per square foot in the city, buyers get shady streets, houses with character, and a fabulous location.

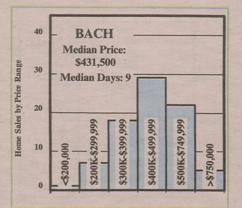

Also served by Bach School are the neighborhoods around downtown and the U-M campus, including the Old Fourth Ward Historic District. Increasingly gentrified, with rehabbed single-family homes as well as new homes and a rapidly growing collection of luxury condominiums, the area is also home to well-worn student rentals. At whatever price point, residents are just a few minutes' walk from the Farmers Market, the People's Food Co-op, Zingerman's Deli, and Kerrytown Market & Shops.

North of Miller, homes are set close to the sidewalk on narrow lots, with porch sitters, bike riders, and kids playing on the sidewalk. Long economically and racially mixed, this neighborhood has become less diverse as prices rise, but rentals remain available. Nestled in a valley between Huron and Miller, West Park offers a band shell and baseball diamond.

Farther south, single-family bungalows, small ranches, and a few story-and-a-halfs (most built after World War II) thread outward from Allmendinger Park, with its softball diamonds, playground, tennis and basketball courts, and picnic facilities. Lilacs line its perimeter.

To the east, Bach extends through the downtown all the way to the U-M Diag, including downtown's set of of luxury condos. The redbrick buildings of the 207-unit Nob Hill apartment complex, the old-timer among the area's apartment complexes, fit comfortably into the neighborhood's southern edge. Downtown student apartments are well represented here, with the 99-unit Zaragon West on William and Sterling 411 Lofts at Washington and Division, the 96-unit Varsity next door, the 210-unit Foundry Lofts, the 124-unit Hub north of Huron, and the Yard at S. Main and Mosley. The 155-unit Ann Arbor City Club Apartments at Washington and First, the 164 units at 618 S. Main, and the smaller, soon-to-open Montgomery Houze at 212 S. Fourth Ave. are unusual in marketing their luxury units to a broader demographic.

At 26 stories, the Tower Plaza condominium on William and Maynard is Ann Arbor's tallest building—and seems certain to remain so, since the city has height limits for new construction. But smaller buildings abound. On Liberty west of downtown, a former car wash has been turned into the Mark, luxury condos with prices starting upwards of $550,000. To the north, a still-growing cluster of infill condos includes 121 Kingsley West, 218 W. Kingsley, 410 N. First, and the mid-rise Kingsley Condo-

The Bach Children's Festival

Every June, kids and families in the Bach Elementary neighborhood walk to the Children's Festival in Wurster Park. "It's a very low-key event," says Rachel Thompson who has been organizing the festival for the last ten years. "It's a beautiful park, and it's not too crowded. Kids don't have to wait in line to do the things that interest them. The activities are spread out through the park. People wander and there's no pressure to do anything."

But there is plenty to do at the event funded by the Old West Side Association. In recent years, for instance, the magician has drawn crowds. "My own kids and their friends climb onto branches on the trees so they can get behind the magician to see how the tricks work," says Thompson.

When Allison Stupka, owner of Ann Arbor Children's House, presents a craft project, she focuses on the process. "If they think too much about what the product will be, it's not as engaging," she explains. This year, Stupka led the kids in paper marbling. She blended carrageenan, derived from seaweed, into water, then had children use an eye dropper to drop acrylic paint on top. When they hold paper to the paint, they have marbled paper. "I can tell they're engrossed because they get quiet," she says. "Some of the older kids start helping the younger ones."

Paul McCormack, "the critter guy," has been taking animals to schools, libraries, and birthday parties since 1995. He joined the festivities at Wurster Park in 2003. McCormack describes his activities as "show, tell, and touch." He picks up an animal—a lizard, perhaps, or a chinchilla—and tells the crowd what it is, what it eats, what it does, then invites them to touch it. Sometimes a child quivers at the thought of touching a snake. "When he starts stroking it, that makes my day," says McCormack.

Dogs attending the Children's Festival with their humans are fascinated by Franklin the turtle, a huge tortoise who wanders the park with a balloon tied to him. "Dogs go right up to him and sniff, and then they circle cautiously," says McCormack. "The turtle doesn't care. He just stays there and eats dandelions."

Christine Brummer, head of the Old West Side board, says the festival started simply as "an egg roll or hunt." By the time Thompson took over, the festival was getting elaborate, so she scaled it back. "We had balloons and a helium tank, and we gave out plastic prizes for games, but that's not good for the environment," she explained. It's simpler, but both children and adults are having too much fun to notice.

miniums. Some larger units here have topped $1 million.

Bach School also serves the triangle bounded by S. Main, Eisenhower, and Ann Arbor–Saline Rd. Residents of the 306-unit Woodland Mews flats and townhouses (which include both owner-occupied condos and rental units) can walk to Busch's supermarket and Whole Foods—or to a game at U-M's new soccer stadium.

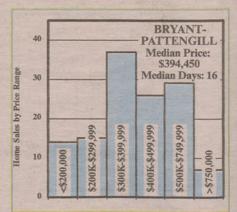

Most Bach kids go on to Slauson, but some on the northern edge of the district can choose Forsythe. Children in the southern triangle go to Tappan. Bach kids who live north of Huron attend Skyline High, while all the rest go to Pioneer.

BRYANT-PATTENGILL

Bryant and Pattengill are paired elementary schools in two south side neighborhoods. The area around Bryant, serving kindergarten through grade 2, offers some of the city's least expensive housing with small ranch homes and multifamily complexes; homes are bigger and more expensive near Pattengill, where kids in both districts go for grades 3–5.

The neighborhoods off Packard include streets of modest and some larger homes, plus apartment and condo complexes. The long-awaited The George apartments on Packard combine 249 units with (yet to be occupied) retail space. The area surrounding Pattengill, once prime farmland, was built up after World War II. Kimberly Hills, south of Independence, has newer and bigger homes. Southwest of Packard, moderately priced houses built in the 1940s and 1950s are mixed with apartments.

The subdivisions near and south of Eisenhower are slightly more affluent. Tri-levels, ranches, colonials, and Cape Cods sit along winding streets. Georgetown, west of Stone School Rd., has a semi-private golf course, private pool, and tennis courts.

The Bryant neighborhood, just off Ellsworth and Stone School, is built on open and slightly rolling terrain. The school itself is set among the small single-family homes along Champagne, which are some of the most affordable in the city.

South of the interchange of Ann Arbor–Saline Rd. and I-94, in Pittsfield Township, single-family housing predominates in a maze of twisting streets behind the Oak Valley and Waters Place shopping centers. Subs here include Briar Hill, Lake Forest, Lake Forest Highlands, and the Pines at Lake Forest.

South of Ellsworth are the winding roads of the huge Stonebridge golf course subdivision, with stately executive homes and detached condominiums in a large area that's divided between the Ann Arbor and Saline school districts.

Multifamily housing is also abundant. Small apartment buildings line Packard and E. Stadium. Midsize complexes along Packard include Mulberry Row (120 units), Pine Valley (164 units), Homestead Commons (112 units), and the upscale 134-unit Ponds at Georgetown. Spruce Knob, just to the south off Stone School, adds 168 units. Woodbury Gardens, off E. Stadium at South Industrial, is one of the city's biggest rental complexes, with 538 units; Arbor Village, behind St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church, has 237. Five complexes in the Briarwood mall area—newly named The Emerson (formerly Signature Club) and Briar Cove south of Eisenhower; and Harbor House, Hidden Valley Club, and Lake Village to the north—add another 1,100 units.

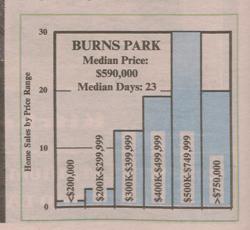

Condos include the 306 affordable townhouses of Forest Hills Cooperative on Ellsworth, the 76-unit Cloverly Village at Ellsworth and Stone School, the 116-unit Georgetown Commons, and a trio of complexes of Ann Arbor–Saline south of I-94: Heatherwood with 188 2- and 3-bedroom ranches; and Oak Meadows and Weatherstone, each with more than 300 mid-priced units.

All the kids in Bryant-Pattengill go on to Tappan and Pioneer.

BURNS PARK

Blocks of tree-canopied streets and well-tended classic old homes set around a historic park and school—as well as its location near both U-M's campus and downtown—make Burns Park one of the city's most desirable neighborhoods.

Northeast of the park, the shady streets climb the gentle slopes of the area known as Ives

The Bach neighborhood boasts thirteen historic districts within its borders.

Woods, which has one of the highest median household incomes in Ann Arbor. Even higher in income is the area north of Washtenaw, where expensive homes on large, wooded lots, including some recent construction, dot the streets stretching east toward Huron Pkwy.

Burns Park includes the South University business district, home to the 18-story, 240-unit University Towers apartments—ugly to some, but home to Madonna back in the day. After it was built in the 1960s the city slapped a height limit on the area that lasted forty years. When it was finally lifted in the mid-2000s, developers quickly responded with new luxury student high-rises, including the ten-story Zaragon Place on East University, the fourteen-story Landmark, catercorner from U Towers, and the thirteen-story Arbor Blu, which rises above the Pizza House restaurant. The wave continues: the new 14-story Six11 midblock between East University and Church will soon be joined by the under-construction Vic Village North and the planned Vic Village South.

Near Packard and Hill, older houses occupied by longtime residents mingle with large fraternity, sorority, and cooperative houses and student apartment buildings. More student rentals are sprinkled around "Lower Burns Park" west of Packard, though zoning changes seek to halt any further advance. Adults predominate in the 262-unit Ann Arbor Woods apartments on E. Stadium.

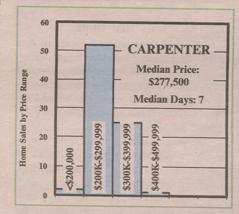

Students from the immediate Burns Park area all go to Tappan Middle School, but then they split, with those north of Washtenaw going to Huron High and the rest to Pioneer. Students also are bused in to Burns Park from Arbor Pointe, with 280 apartments across from Washtenaw Community College, and the huge Glencoe Hills complex, whose 584 units extend from Washtenaw to Clark east of US-23. Students from these areas go on to Scarlett Middle School (except for a few living north of Clark who are in the Clague area) and to Huron High.

CARPENTER

Carpenter Elementary serves two areas of northeast Pittsfield Township, an area long popular for its affordable homes and semi-rural setting. Carpenter grads go on to Scarlett Middle School and Huron High.

The small frame and ranch houses in the original Carpenter School neighborhood were built around World War II. Several generations live on these quiet, flat streets, laid out in a grid between Packard and Washtenaw. Stretches of condos, townhouses, and single-family homes spread along the south side of Packard and in the Arbor Woods subdivision. An older neighborhood of connected shady streets lies west of Colfoids.

Children along Christina and adjoining streets north of Morgan are bused to Carpenter. So are those in an area between Crane and Golfside along and south of Textile, in the far southeast corner of the school district. South of Ellsworth and west of US-23, where the Carpenter area stretches south of Michigan Ave., a few modest subdivisions alternate with individual homes among acres of surviving farmland. Wellesley Gardens, on Michigan Ave. just west of US-23, has 426 condos, lofts, and townhouses; the Arbor Knoll apartments are next door. To the west, on Stone School south of Ellsworth, are the 200 "upper and lower ranches" of the Woodside Meadows condominium.

DICKEN

Dicken is a west side family neighborhood with shady streets and modest 1- and 2-story homes. It includes Dicken Woods, a nature area behind the elementary school that was saved from development by neighbors and is now the site of school and community nature programs.

Small parks are sprinkled throughout the area. Mushroom Park is known for its comical ceramic fungi; Las Vegas Park has a soccer field and playground; and Greenview Park, on the west side of Seventh St., provides a natural retreat for dog walkers and picnickers.

On former croplands southwest of I-94 and north of Scio Church the Ravines and Meadowinds subdivisions went up at the turn of the

Haisley's Tails That Bind

Tucked in the northwest corner of Ann Arbor, the Haisley Elementary neighborhood runs from the older homes centered around Maryfield–Wildwood Park north across Arborview to mid-century ranches and the tree-lined streets around the Wellington Playground and Miller Nature Area.

The parks and nature area make natural places for neighbors to meet. And some of our most beloved neighbors have four legs. Leading their owners on the daily rounds these VIPs (Very Important Pets) keep their humans connected. Neighbors gather at the park on Maryfield and Westwood, where the playground sprouts new babies every year and the basketball court, when not in use for 3-on-3, makes a great parking lot for scooters, mini-cars and push toys. Toddlers start on the climber and graduate to hanging out on the picnic tables on summer nights.

If you walk along N. Revena on a right turn from Huron you'll meet Olive, Freckles, Murph, and Birdie. All get along well. Freckles is known for her ability to heel. Olive, however is a very chic and discriminating tri-color pit bull. She chooses her friends carefully and it seems only Sadie, who lives on Dexter, gets the privilege of walking with her. And there's Buddy, a big black and white husky known for his slow amble.

Even in the frozen winter months, dogs get their families out walking. On the corner of Mark Hannah, neighbor dogs gather to send their charges onto the school bus. Charlie, another good-natured golden retriever, welcomes everyone. Firecracker walks her little boy. She's a puppy and, everyone agrees, a handful. Manchego, a shih tzu, is highly intelligent but also highly opinionated. Trip is obsessed with squirrels but is as low-key as they come with humans. He will amble up and lean against any waiting shin.

Eddie is the oldest gentleman in the neighborhood at eighty-seven dog-years old—thirteen in human years. Although almost blind, this noble hound can still navigate by nose.

Across beautifully treed Linwood lives well-bred and well-mannered Stanley, surely the closest to a show talent we have. Long-legged and beautiful posture puts the lie to assumptions about Doberman pinschers. He greets everyone with good cheer.

Max is up early and walks with his coffee-toting owner. With a deep bark, Max is a good alarm system. Emma on Harbrooke can be seen in plaid when the weather gets cold. Sneakers and Zelda live along Doty Ave. and Daphne is known as the Queen of Penncraft Court.

It's not all dogs here in the northwest corner of Ann Arbor, but we like to think that if we love our dogs, we have room in our hearts for you, too, if you happen to wander our way.

century; they have amenities like tennis courts and playgrounds. Also north of Scio Church near Maple, the 76-unit luxury Kensington Woods condominiums forms one sweeping circle. West of Upland Dr., the 1990s-era Uplands offer slightly larger brick and wood residences, often with decks, and more housing variety, with a mix of modern and traditional styles.

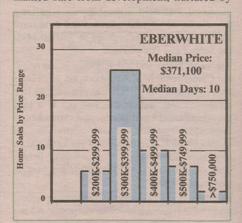

Kids are bused to Dicken from the 368-unit Arbor Club Apartments off Scio Ridge Rd. Closer to the school are Surrey Park, with 176 ranchstyle prefab units, and the older, 312-unit Park Place. Residents here and in the Summit View, Walden Hills, and Walden Village condo complexes on Pauline are close to shopping centers, restaurants, gas stations, and the many stores along Maple and Stadium.

Dicken students go on to attend Slauson Middle School and Pioneer High School.

EBERWHITE

Located on the former property of Eber White, an early settler who helped fugitive slaves escape to Canada, this neighborhood has a mix of homes of different eras, all within a few blocks of Eberwhite Woods, one of the city's most beautiful, secluded natural areas.

The school and its grounds were carved out of the southeast corner of the oak-hickory woods in 1950, adjoining a neighborhood of broad, hilly, tree-lined streets and predominantly two-story homes built between the world wars. In the 1960s subdivisions wrapped around the south and west edges, but the woods have remained safe from development, nurtured by a school-based stewardship group. They have walking trails, a profusion of spring wildflowers, and 3 ponds, 1 of which lies in a natural amphitheater and is the site of cacophonous early-spring concerts by frenzied spring peepers.

North of Liberty, the Virginia Park area has many 2-family duplexes and Cape Cods. Behind the strip of commercial businesses and fast-food joints along W. Stadium is a mixed neighborhood of small homes and apartments. South of Pauline, 1950s- and 1960s-era neighborhoods stretch toward W. Stadium. The only major apartment complexes in the area are the 120-unit Westwood on Liberty, built in the late 1970s, and the older 174-unit Manchester Flats at Pauline and W. Stadium. The 32-unit subsidized Pauline Apartments replaced an older complex on the same site in 2014. The small Eagle Ridge and Liberty Heights condominiums face each other across Liberty just east of W. Stadium.

Eberwhite graduates all go to Slauson Middle School and to Pioneer High, both within walking distance, except for some in the northern part of the area who attend Skyline.

HAISLEY

The area around Haisley Elementary is a close-knit neighborhood of ranches and 1½-story Cape Cods where parents push tots in strollers to nearby Wellington Park and seniors chat with neighbors on front lawns.

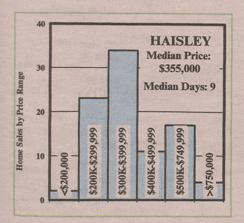

Haisley draws from 2 separate areas: the compact neighborhood around the school and the newer subdivisions between Liberty and I-94 in Scio Township. Students in the older neighborhood can choose Forsythe or Slauson middle school; elsewhere, all attend Forsythe. Both areas are Skyline High turf.

Not far from the school, Miller Nature Area is a hidden pocket of woods. During the summer months, neighbors gather to stay cool at Veterans Memorial Park Pool on Jackson near Maple. At the park, the evenings come alive with the crack of bats and the sound of wild cheering as ball teams compete. All ages of rollerblading and skateboarding enthusiasts enjoy the 30,000-square-foot, world-class Ann Arbor Skatepark that is free for the public to use at the northwest corner of the park. In the winter, children slide down the steep hills behind the indoor skating rink.

Outside the beltway in Scio Township, kids are bused in from the new developments along Jackson. West of Zeeb is the 312-home newly completed Trailwoods subdivision off Staebler. Big-box stores, light industry, and restaurants pack the corridor, providing a commercial node for the condos and subdivisions, in line with the township's plan to concentrate development there and try to preserve rural character elsewhere.

Arbor Chase, a 96-unit new condominium development, sits back from Zeeb behind the Meijer on Jackson. The Polo Fields, off Zeeb north of Liberty, is a classic late-20th-century subdivision, with imposing homes clustering around a golf course and country club. Beyond, Scio's dirt roads are dotted with individual country houses, large and small.

Apartments on Zeeb include the Cambridge Club, with 108 1- and 2-bedroom units, and the 106-unit Scio Village, which has its own nature preserve; the 144-unit Lakestone is hidden away off Parkland behind the Jackson business strip. Haisley also serves the three cohousing complexes south of Jackson, and part of the huge Scio Farms manufactured housing community.

KING

Nestled in an upscale, woodsy 1960s subdivision on the northeast side, King Elementary draws students from both sides of US-23 and is known for its diverse international population with families at the school representing more than 25 countries.

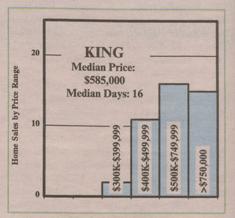

The winding streets north of Glazier offer colonial, ranch, and tri-level homes. Young families, retirees, and single people live in King's mature subdivisions and apartment buildings. On the hilly terrain south of Glazier are contemporary custom-built homes on big lots in natural settings, with neatly landscaped townhouses and condominiums along Huron Pkwy.

East of US-23 is a growing area of lowdensity development with prime freeway access and office parks. Off Dixboro Rd. are Radrick Meadows and Fleming Creek, both with large single-family homes. Farther east, off Gale, is the retreatlike Matthaei Farm community, with expensive custom-built homes. Woodlands of Geddes Glen luxury sub is just north of Geddes. To the south, private drives wind away to carefully isolated riverfront mansions, as well as the elegant Towsley Farms and Geddes Glen developments.

The 501-unit GreenBrier and 216-unit Village Park apartment complexes are within walking distance of King. Other students are bused from Arrowwood Hills Cooperative (350 townhouse units) and the 520-unit Haven of Ann Arbor on

Major condominiums include the 174-unit Earhart Village, the 103-unit Laurel Gardens along Dixboro Rd., and the 360-unit Geddes Lake on Huron Pkwy.—a resident calls Geddes Lake "an island of affordability" in the city's pricey Clague Middle School and Huron High serve the entire King area.

LAKEWOOD

Nature's sounds still win out over the roar of nearby Jackson Road and I-94 in west-side Lakewood. Named for its First Sister and Second Sister Lakes and woods around Dolph Park, this compact neighborhood includes a mix of housing styles.

South of the school, off Liberty, the Burr Oak subdivision dates from the 1980s. The Lakewood area stretches far west into southern Scio Township and northern Lodi Township, where scattered big houses on park-size lawns intermix with the remaining farms, with their rustic barns on stone foundations, split-rail or white picket fences, and occasional horse pastures

Expensive newer homes include a cluster on Tessmer off Waters, where houses are separated by fields of wildflowers, in Pheasant Hollow on Scio Church east of Zeeb, and across the street on Encore. To the west are Riding Oaks Estates and Sandy Creek, with 3-to-6-acre home sites and equestrian trails.

The established Country French Estates in the Lakewood area's northwest corner has recently been joined by two newer subs in easy walking distance of shopping along Jackson Rd. South along Zeeb the few houses have stately trees and huge yards with swing sets, decks, and patios. East of Zeeb is Arbor Meadows, with stonework facades and landscaped lawns. In Saginaw Hills Estates off Liberty, modern brick and stone homes and decks rise above impressively large landscaped lawns.

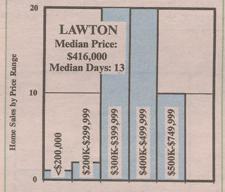

Condominiums are concentrated around Liberty near Scio Ridge Rd. On the north side of the road, the 1980s-vintage Liberty Pointe and Liberty Oaks offer 65 detached ranches and 114 townhouses, respectively. Across the street is the newly completed 130-unit Summerfield Glen; the 1990s-era Walnut Glen and Walnut View off Scio Ridge Rd. add another 152 condos between them. Affordable housing is provided by the 290-lot Orchard Grove manufactured home community on Wagner. Farther east at Liberty and Maple, the nearly completed Blue Heron Townhomes nestle in woods around a pond, while others in the sprawling new development front Liberty.

Lakewood students who live north of Liberty go on to Forsythe and Skyline High; those who live south go to Slauson and Pioneer.

LAWTON

Street after street of handsome colonials, well-manicured lawns, and cul-de-sacs with sports-playing kids make the area around Lawton Elementary feel more like suburb than city. The Lawton area includes established neighborhoods inside the freeway ring, newer ones to the southwest in Pittsfield Township, and a section of rural Lodi Township to the west. All students go to Slauson Middle School and Pioneer High.

Around the school itself, south of Scio Church, there are a variety of split-levels and colonials.

Farther south, the simple 2-story homes on Northbrook date from the 1980s.

Across I-94 in Pittsfield Township, the 1990s-era Arbor Creek and Boulder Ridge subdivisions hug the west side of the freeway, tucked behind the Oak Valley Centre. Arbor Creek provides large, 2-story cul-de-sac homes with tidy lawns. The Colonial-style Boulder Ridge has a play park, and the 2 subdivisions share a common area with a walking path. The 192-unit Centerra Pointe townhouse apartments sit tightly clustered on 18 acres along Oak Valley, across from Boulder Ridge and Arbor Creek. The 217-unit Meadowbrook Village apartments off Ann Arbor–Saline Rd. date from the late 1980s.

South of Waters is the Hawthorne Ridge subdivision, whose 2-story homes boast big garages and vaulted brick entranceways. Beyond the Lake Forest Golf Club lie small brick ranches, 2-story houses, and open fields; homes are set far back down long driveways.

Farther west, Lodi Township still has active farms, including a few horse farms. Along Wagner are older country homes with vegetable gardens and big yards with lots of trees, and sometimes a tractor or dilapidated barn.

Students are bused to Lawton from the Pinelake Village Cooperative, a 1960s-vintage federal project on S. Maple with 129 townhouses.

LOGAN

Tree-lined Traver Blvd., on the city's northeast side, is home to Logan Elementary, with condos and apartments across from the school and quiet streets of well-kept colonials leading to the aptly named Placid Way Park behind the school.

This is the largest elementary school area in the district, stretching out from the city into portions of Ann Arbor, Northfield, Salem, and Superior townships. The area is ethnically diverse, with one of the highest concentrations of Asian Americans in the city. Many people have settled on this side of town for its convenient access to metropolitan Detroit.

Neighborhoods

Pittsfield is unique among Ann Arbor neighborhoods in being anchored by a condo complex, the 422-unit Pittsfield Village Condominiums

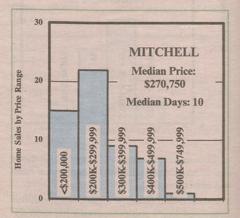

Subdivisions located off Dhu Varren include the 1990s vintage Foxfire and Dhu Varren Park. Off Nixon Rd., the former 109-acre Nixon Farm is rapidly being developed with the 282-unit Woodbury Club apartments under construction. The Plymouth Road mall and Traver Village offer stores and restaurants. Logan school itself is surrounded by modest single-family homes and the 210-unit Traver Ridge apartment complex. The Logan area stretches north of US-23 and M-14. Beyond the reach of public sewer and water, homes here are on large lots of 2 acres or more. The area on and around Warren Rd. offers modest homes with lots of acreage on dirt roads. In the Pine Brook Estates subdivision off Gleaner Hall, north of Pontiac, homes cluster on 1-acre lots around a 22-acre common area that includes several ponds. The 100-home Tanglewood community, south of M-14 and east of Dixboro, features multistory contemporary homes on large lots.

Logan serves some students from the Arrow-wood Hills Cooperative, as well as families in the 475-unit Willowtree complex across from North Campus. Off Huron Pkwy. are the 100-unit Ironwood Place apartments and Parkway Meadows, whose 212 units are targeted at low-income residents and seniors. Nearby are the 88 Traver Lakes condos.

From Logan, students go on to Clague Middle School. Those living east of Nixon go to Huron High; the rest attend Skyline.

MITCHELL

The paired Mitchell Elementary and Scarlett Middle schools adjoin the 427 affordable townhouses of the Colonial Square Cooperative and nearby modestly priced ranches and colonials on Platt. The schools' extensive playfields and the neighboring Scarlett-Mitchell Nature Area, with its branching trails and pond, are a magnet for residents of the southeast side neighborhood.

This area includes the neighborhoods straddling Platt Rd. south of Packard and winds its way as far southeast as the intersection of Carpenter and Merritt.

Young families find the neighborhood near the school appealing: the prices are modest for Ann Arbor, and schools and a variety of interesting ethnic markets are nearby. In addition to Colonial Square there are 3-bedroom ranches and a few 2-story colonials on modest lots on both sides of Platt. The 210-home Turnberry subdivision on Packard just west of US-23 is slightly more expensive and caters to an older crowd. Farther south in Pittsfield Township are the Oakengates and Willow Pond subdivisions, set amid older individual homes on large lots, and Arbor Meadows, a 408-lot manufactured-housing community.

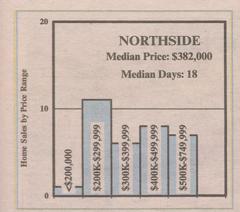

All Mitchell children go on to Scarlett Middle School and Huron High.

NORTHSIDE

An eclectic mix of homes—including some of the city's oldest—fills this neighborhood northeast of downtown. The former Northside Elementary is now a magnet school, A2STEAM. A community center draws neighbors to its steps and baseball players to Northside Park's fields behind the school.

Just north of the Huron River, Lower Town has some of the city's oldest surviving houses such as the Beckley House, built in New England Georgian style, at the corner of Pontiac and Argo. It was once a stop on the Underground Railroad, and schoolchildren used to take field trips there to imagine where the slaves hid.

Rising northward from the river, the Broadway neighborhood combines rental housing with older single-family houses on large, well-kept lots on and near Cedar Bend, a street that offers spectacular views of the Huron River valley and leads down a rutted path to Cedar Bend Nature Area. Many older homes have been rehabilitated, and the area has become more popular with families who have young children.

In the established, low-key, well-integrated neighborhood off Pontiac Tr., neighbors fix their cars, children play tag in the streets, and retirees sit in rockers on the porch. Longshore is a quiet road tracing the top of the bluff above the river. A popular boardwalk along Barton provides pedestrian access to Bandemer Park and combines with a bicycle path to complete a walking and biking loop around Argo Pond.

Farther up Pontiac Tr., the brick Cape Cods off Brookside and Skydale in the Huron Highlands area are home to families, retirees, and singles. The new North Sky subdivision features stately brick one- and two-story homes on sizable lots. Off Dhu Varren, Leslie Park Circle's newer midsize homes offer easy access to its namesake park, with its golf course and nature area. With Leslie and Olson Park, at Dhu Varren and Pontiac, Northside offers some of the largest recreation spaces in the city. At the edge of town, the 350 townhouses of the Arrowwood Hills Cooperative, the city's largest, rest on 44 landscaped acres; this complex, too, offers easy access to nature areas, and a bus line is at the

The area south of Plymouth Rd. and west of Huron Pkwy. is dominated by the U-M's North Campus, a mixture of classroom and research buildings, residence halls, and rental apartments and townhouses for students and staff. Students also are abundant in the 160-unit Parc Pointe, the 84-unit Broadview, and the 130-unit Highlands apartments, on either side of Plymouth at the top of the Broadway hill. East of Broadway, the Courtyards targets its 1-to-4bedroom units exclusively at students, with individual leases and amenities like free wireless and outdoor party spaces. Farther from campus, Traver Knoll's 216 units draw a more diverse

More apartments cluster along the Huron River including Island Drive, with 348 units, and Medical Center Court, with 201. The 128 Shoreview townhouses off Pontiac Tr. include both owner-occupied and rental units. Other condos include the 1960s-vintage Riverhouse, with 128 apartments off Island Dr., the 62-unit Nielsen Square on Maiden Lane, and the 112unit Northside Glen, at Pontiac and Dhu Varren, both built around the turn of the century.

Northside is in the Clague Middle School and Skyline High areas, except for North Campus, where children are bused to Tappan and then go to Huron High. Some Arrowwood Hills students are bused to Thurston Elementary.

PITTSFIELD

Pittsfield is unique among Ann Arbor neighborhoods in being anchored by a condo complex. Laid out in 1943, the 422-unit Pittsfield Village Condominiums feature winding streets and sweeping parklike common yards on a total of 64 acres, housing a mix of seniors and families. The many children in the adjoining Forestbrooke area enjoy a neighborhood pool and swim club. Forestbrooke and the nearby Darlington subdivision, which have ample yards, contain Sheffler Park and the Rosebud Nature Area.

The established, affordable neighborhoods that make up the Pittsfield school area are surrounded by commercial strips lined with big-box stores, fast-food chains, and a variety of international shops that serve a diverse population. Block after block of small starter homes surround the school. Kids also are bused from the shady streets of the 1960s-era neighborhood off Golfside between Woodside and Ellsworth. The Silverleaf subdivision near Golfside and Ellsworth is composed mostly of 2-story homes. The University Palisades subdivision off Ellsworth, closer to Carpenter, offers ranches, colonials, and split-colonials.

Pittsfield also draws students from the 336unit Ridgewood Apartments on Carpenter and the adjacent 121-unit Coachville mobile home community; the boyhood home of Iggy Pop, it now has a significant immigrant presence.

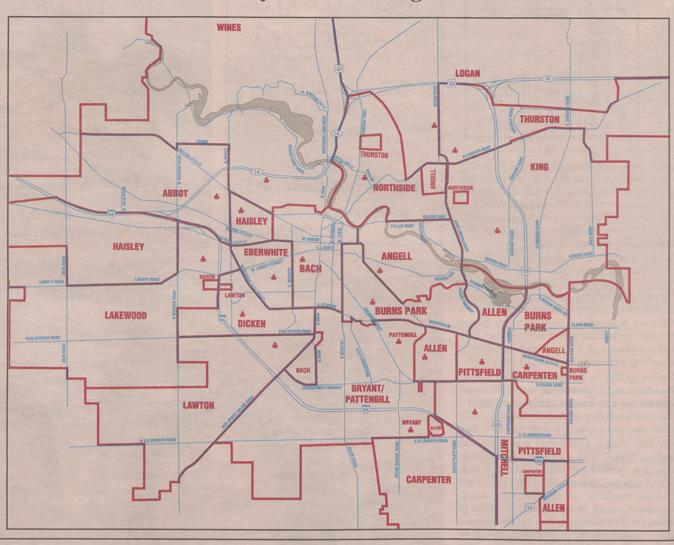

Pittsfield students attend Scarlett Middle School and Huron High.

THURSTON

Northeast-side Thurston Elementary is surrounded by a pond, a prairie, and a nature area, and its 1960s-era ranches and colonials are filled with families who walk to school and the neighborhood pool and parks via nature trails and sidewalks.

Elementary School Neighborhoods

The area north of Plymouth and east of Nixon is undergoing rapid change with the development of the former Nixon farm. North Oaks's 472 townhomes and "villas"-clusters of attached condos-already are moving in owners. Older neighborhoods comprise a well-manicured mixture of subdivisions, condominiums, townhouses, and apartment complexes. Business professionals, U-M faculty and staff, children, and retirees all mix in this diverse area. The single-family subdivisions west of Green were first known as Ford Motor Company neighborhoods, for their high commuter population. Young families are very much in evidence. The neighborhoods are fairly stable, with an extremely high rate of home ownership. Many children live within walking distance of school, and shopping at Traver Village and Plymouth Road Mall is just a stone's throw away

The hamlet of Dixboro, along Plymouth Rd. at the western edge of Superior Township, has a small core of historic homes. The Thurston area continues deep into the township, where exclusive subdivisions are mixed in with old and new country homes on huge lots with views of the remaining farms. Some homes in the Glennborough sub off Gale have sold for more than $1.5 million.

The 480-unit Windmere Park apartments are near the school; some students also are bused from the 350-unit Arrowwood Hills Co-op.

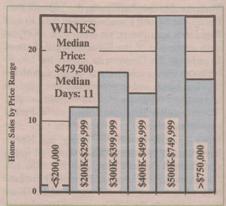

The Chapel Hill condos, east of Green, have a fairly high turnover, as U-M graduate students, staff, and foreign visitors come and go from 425 townhouses. The newer 291-unit Barclay Park complex is nearby.

Thurston students attend Clague Middle School and Huron High.

WINES

As Newport Road climbs north to the Wines Elementary area, just south of M-14 on the city's northwest side, broad and rambling roads offer some of the best views in the city and a wide range of housing styles, encompassing everything from modest subdivisions in Ann Arbor to secluded luxury homes in Barton Hills and rural residential hideaways in the townships of Ann Arbor, Scio, and Webster. A mix of retired and young families live among lofty hills in houses ranging from Cape Cods and colonials

Tending the Thurston Nature Center

Imagine the thrill of arriving at your new home to discover acres of trails, views, wild-life, and a seven-acre pond. That's what happened to Praveena Ramaswami and her husband, Madhan, when they moved into Ann Arbor's northeast Thurston neighborhood seventeen years ago. The Ramaswamis and their two children have enjoyed nature walks and community events at the Thurston Nature Center ever since.

Ramaswami says many people don't know about the nature center because it "is actually inside the neighborhood ... people drive by and they don't know that there is this little magic land in the center of a bunch of houses"

The nature center is a twenty-four acre oasis surrounding Thurston Pond. There are no buildings, only a peaceful trail close to the water's edge. A walk around the pond takes roughly fifteen minutes. Add in thirty more to marvel at the area's oak savannah, rain gardens, prairies, Monarch Butterfly waystation, and wildlife—or to chat with neighbors also out taking in the sights, sounds, and smells. In the summertime, you may see snapping turtles, egrets, herons, merganser ducks, and other wildlife. Two bird islands, built from sediment dredged from the bottom of the pond in 2015, bring respite to migrating birds.

AAPS teachers, students, and their families, and neighborhood volunteers have been the park's stewards, raising money, participating in pond and landscape improvements, and removing invasive plants. Recent events include a solstice walk in December, a hockey and hot cocoa afternoon in February, and spring wildflower walks.

The Ann Arbor Public Schools and the Orchard Hills Athletic Club pool co-own the nature center, with the OHAC pool on Yorktown Dr. serving as one of its two entrances. The other is on Prairie St.

In 1964, Bill Stapp, a U-M professor considered the founder of environmental education, recommended the serene site for a nature center. A fifty-year celebration was held in 2014 with the dedication of the rustic William Stapp Amphitheater—six long benches forming a semi-circle. The same year, a trail was named for longtime supporters Mike and Madelaine Conboy. Until his death at ninety-eight, Mike tried to plant every kind of tree in Michigan in the nature center, and participated in its controlled burns and fall and spring community-wide workdays. "Even in his old age," says Ramaswami, "he was planting and pulling brush." Such is the dedication, she says, that is "preserving this gem in our community.'

-Anita LeBlanc

near Hunt Park to dramatic contemporaries on Orkney; all have easy access to both Bird Hills Nature Area and Bluffs Park. The city calls this the Sunset neighborhood, but a spectacularly successful neighborhood music festival popularized a new name: Water Hill.

West of Newport, young parents mix with grandparents on quiet streets of single-family ranches and Cape Cods tucked behind the sports fields of Forsythe Middle School, which shares a large, open campus with Wines.

M-14 divides the middle-class city neighborhoods to its south from some of the most exclusive terrain in the Ann Arbor area. As Newport moves north from the freeway, it passes through late-20th-century subdivisions filled with family-minded professionals and business executives.—Walnut Ridge, Newport Hills, and Newport Creek. Farther north, modern dream houses perch on the wooded slopes and stare out across the Huron River at the mansions of Barton Hills in a duel of extravagance. Barton Hills, one of Michigan's wealthiest communities, is legally a village, but its streets and shared facilities are owned by the homeowners' private association, which limits access to residents and their guests. Most of the village's first homes, often of English Tudor or cottage style, were constructed during the 1930s. Architect-designed mid-century modern houses followed in the 1950s and 1960s. Recently, many homes have been extensively renovated—or torn down and replaced with larger contemporary structures.

The Wines district continues west along Miller almost to Zeeb and far north into Webster Township, where country homes sit on large lots. Multiple-family housing is represented by Newport West Condominiums, whose 103 units are carefully designed to maximize privacy and views of neighboring Bird Hills Nature Area.

Wines grads go on to Forsythe Middle School and Skyline High.

Ronald House

Helping families with sick kids stay close

When their twins were born eight years ago weighing just three pounds apiece, Misty and Steven Rhodes named them appropriately: Gideon (mighty warrior) and Scarlett (Gone with the Wind's determined heroine).

Since spending their first weeks in the hospital's NICU at the U-M's Mott Children's Hospital, Scarlett has had more than four eye surgeries and fused bones in her elbows repaired there. Gideon, who uses a wheelchair, has had more than seventy surgeries for congenital defects and, most recently, stage four leukemia.

Initially, Misty and Steven slept alternately in a recliner in their kids' hospital rooms before finding respite at Mott House. They estimate that in 2018 alone, they spent 237 days at the facility while Gideon was under care. Even if it was only for a couple of hours, Misty says, "you could turn all the lights off, and know if something is wrong, we're right down the hall ... the nurses knew exactly where we were."

Mott House opened in 2011 on the same floor as Mott's pediatric ICU. It's an offshoot of the freestanding Ronald McDonald House, aka the Main House, which opened in 1985. Both facilities provide lodging for families with children (age twenty-one and younger) receiving care at any Washtenaw County health facility, though the majority are at Mott Hospital. Mott House is for adult caregivers of young patients being treated in ICUs; RMH lodges caregivers and siblings who typically live more than fifty miles away, though executive director Kim Kelly says that's not at "hard-and-fast rule."

The Main House currently has thirty-one rooms, each with two or more beds (additional rollaway beds, air beds, and cribs are also available) and a private bath stocked with toiletries. The three-story house has multiple shared living areas (including a U-M-themed game room), indoor and outdoor play spaces, a room where kids can select new toys, a fully stocked kitchen, and a pantry with snacks and convenience foods. Volunteers prepare an evening meal nearly every day. The facility also offers free laundry, parking, and Wi-Fi.

Mott House, on the tenth floor of Mott Hospital, has smaller rooms, each with a twin bed and recliner and a private bath. There is a community kitchen with a Keurig coffee maker, convenience foods, and storage space for caregivers' food. There's also a small laundry and sitting area.

Approximately 1,000–1,200 families come through each year, for an average stay of two weeks. There are four full-time staffers, eighteen part-timers, and more than one hundred volunteers.

Ronald McDonald Charities Global supports licensing and some administrative costs, but almost all of the annual $1.3 million operating budget comes from individual donors, local family foundations, and corporate sponsors. Kelly shares that there isn't enough space for all the families that ask to stay, so they're analyzing a potential major expansion to better serve them.

"It's truly an honor that we get to do this," she says. "It's the best job in the world."

Ann Arbor city and school board elections are held concurrently with federal, state, and county elections on the first Tuesday following the first Monday in November in even-numbered years. Township and village elections are every 4 years to coincide with national presidential elections. For all elections, polls are open 7 a.m.—8 p.m.

You can register to vote at your city or township clerk's office or at a Secretary of State branch office, (for locations, see the Secretary of State listing in this guide). To be eligible to vote, you must be a U.S. citizen and at least 18 on Election Day and a 30-day resident at your local address. #### Creation to evolution and extinction at the U-M Museum of Natural History.

"Gee, I didn't know a museum could be fun!" one boy of middle school age confided to his mother as he raised and lowered his arms, causing an interactive depiction of earth's geological evolution to race from present day to the far distant past—and back again. And again. And again.

"In my day, natural history museums were rows of glass cases lined with fossils and stuffed animals," a middle-aged man murmured as he listened to a graduate student explaining how the scientists, viewed through large windows, were prepping fossils in their laboratory. "Museums have come a long, long way."

Indeed, they have.

When the new U-M Museum of Natural History officially opened its doors to the public in April 2019, it shattered expectations of stuffed birds and dark corridors. The collections and exhibits have been integrated into the brand-new $261 million Biological Sciences Building, adjacent to the museum's former home in the Ruthven Building. "Fifty percent of the specimens on display are from the old museum, fifty percent are new," director Amy Harris explains.

"We moved four billion years of history into this space," Harris says, beginning a tour of the museum

First stop: the five-story atrium, where two giant mastodon skeletons lumber along a cast of actual mastodon tracks. Floating overhead are prehistoric whales and a life-size twenty-five-foot model of a flying Quetzalcoatlus pterosaur.

During the move from Ruthven, many dinosaur bones featured in older exhibits had grown too fragile to display; some had crumbled and were unable to take their designated place in the new museum space. "So, we made new plans, switched gears, and replaced a massive dinosaur skeleton with a mural of the western interior seaway of North America and suspended the fossils of flying dinosaurs," Harris says

In the planetarium, tilt your seat back and admire the thirty-foot dome crafted with nine layers of stainless steel to silence the space. Lights dim and a moment later, the universe appears, thanks to state-of-the-art Digistar technology. When the program ends, meander through the exhibit "Measuring Time and Space," including a wall where children (of all ages), can determine their height in relation to the natural world. Ten turtles high? Two penguins?

Finally, enter the museum's magnum opus exhibit: "Evolution: Life Through Time," the tale of five periods of mass extinctions, and one celebrating the evolution of humankind. There are panoramas of ancient landscapes, fossils of extinct creatures, re-creations of fossilized fish and mammals, and interactive programs.

The first Great Mass Extinction took place 444 million years ago. The second, "a slow, steady collapse," was completed 358 million years ago. The third and most devastating, 251 million years ago, eradicated between 80 and 90 percent of the earth's species. "The world began to look very different," the portal explains. "The few survivors provided the foundation for the next chapter of evolution."

The Triassic Period that followed saw the oceans begin to diversify during a long period comprising both extinctions and growth. The great titans of the ancient seas appeared, long before whales. Fossil fish swim across exhibits as modern stony corals and reefs began developing. Mammals evolve from a group of hairy warm-blooded reptiles with powerful jaws. A recreation of this furry and ferocious-looking creature frightens a little girl in pink, who scurries to her mother with an "Oh! Ugh!"

In the fifth mass extinction, sixty-six million years ago, 80 percent of the species on earth perished "in a geological instant." As the journey through earth's evolutionary past continues, you come face-to-knees with a giant carnivorous dinosaur, a cannibal called Majungasaurus, which once terrorized fellow inhabitants of Madagascar. Twenty feet long, weighing a ton, with arms only a foot long.

"We still have one hundred 3-D printed skeletons to be installed," Harris says as she moves on to the last portal of the gallery. Here, our human ancestors make their appearance. A display case introduces a three-plus-foottall female Australopithecus sediba who roamed South Africa two million years ago. Both a cast and a re-creation of her body, the first of its kind, attracts a crowd of admirers. Nearby, a wall of evolutionary facial skeletons invites visitors to study, touch, and trace the ancient ancestors on our family tree.

There is one final portal, which warns of a future Mass Extinction Number Six. "How can you help prevent extinctions?" it asks. Answers range from properly disposing unused medications and trash to electing officials who are willing to work to preserve the world.

Fifty scientists, graduate students, and faculty members joined museum staff to brainstorm and design the exhibits, along with an outside firm specializing in scientific exhibitions and technological experts. Still to come: gallery exhibits, classrooms, laboratories where visitors can inspect specimens under cutting-edge microscopes, and a table where they can examine real prehistoric specimens.

"This is extraordinary. Really extraordinary," a visitor remarks at the end of the trail.

Project Grow

Just a different kind of neighborhood

On any given summer day, gardeners from age twenty to eighty tug weeds from around Brussels sprouts, melons, and peppers. Their ten fenced-in plots, each twenty-five by thirty feet, compose a collection of three compact rows against a backdrop of tall trees behind Lakewood Elementary School.

Between pulling weeds, muggy afternoons, and fending off unidentifiable pests, gardening can be frustrating even when the weather cooperates—which it didn't in 2019, when cold and rain delayed the growing season. Project Grow managing director (and longtime gardener) Kirk Jones calls it "the worst spring I can remember!"

The rewards include home grown produce and camaraderie. For many, the gardens are a second neighborhood, with growers sharing advice, a shovelful of mulch, or a cold drink during a day in the hot sun.

"Project Grow is for everyone," says Jones. People of any age, from any neighborhood, and of any mobility level can garden. Project Grow collaborates with the Center for Independent Living on a wheelchair-accessible garden there, and two other sites have raised beds for gardeners with limited mobility. (These "Discovery Gardens" also come with extra assistance and education from volunteers.)

Although plots are individual, gardeners take responsibility for their site as a whole. Each of the twenty-two locations has a volunteer coordinator who schedules work days where all the gardeners get together for garden-wide clean-up.

Since its inception forty-seven years ago, Project Grow has also been busy growing. In 1971, just one site on Stone School Rd. held forty-three plots where families could plant and harvest that year. Today, Project Grow is the longest-running community garden in the country. The individual plots—350 of them—fill up fast. "If you want a plot," says Jones, "the time to be thinking about it is when you aren't thinking about it, which is February and March. Some plots fill up in March." Prospective gardeners apply for a plot online. Gardeners can also apply for scholarships to offset the cost of a plot—$130 for a full plot, $80 for a half-plot, and $50 for a smaller Discovery Garden.

Jones, a longtime participant in Project Grow whose tenure has progressed from gardener, to site manager, to board member, to managing director, remembers the first year, 1987, Washtenaw County provided water to his garden at County Farm Park. Before that, gardeners hauled water from the nearby creek. (All sites now have water available.)

Jones says the Project Grow board, especially in recent years, has been tempted to branch out into other services, but they always come back to their goal: to let as many people as possible garden. The emphasis on education, accessibility, and community has led to a strong and diverse community of gardeners.

It's "a community of people that is different in many, many ways, but everyone shares this big passion for gardening," says Jones. And as for the best gardening advice he can pass along? "There's always next year," he says with a laugh

RIVERFRONT PARKS

Ann Arbor boasts several miles of diverse parks along the Huron River. Connected by trails, they provide the perfect setting for a long scenic walk or bike ride, as well as the chance to stop and enjoy activities ranging from bird watching and fishing to disc golf and swimming. Here's an overview, downstream from northwest to southeast.

Located on the northwest side of town, the Bird Hills Nature Area is the city's largest park, a favorite of hikers for its unpaved wooded trails through steep hills and ravines. To the east, across the river and Huron River Drive, the low-lying Barton Nature Area contains several different ecosystems, including prairie, emergent marshland, wet meadows, and former farmlands, and is home to the century-old Barton Dam. To the east stretches Bandemer Park, frequented by many for its 9-hole disc golf course, dirt bike jump course, and views of Argo Pond.

The pond is circled by a trail connecting Bandemer Park with Argo Park to the east. A pedestrian boardwalk and then a dirt trail follow the eastern shoreline south through dense willows and oaks to the Argo watersports livery off Longshore Dr. On the west side of the pond, the paved Border-to-Border Trail (B2B) runs from Bandemer to Argo Dam and follows the Huron River all the way to Ypsilanti. The wildly popular Argo Cascades are a bypass channel featuring a series of nine narrow drops and pools that carry paddlers and inner-tubers from Argo Pond down to the main river just upstream of the Broadway Bridges.

The B2B Trail goes under the bridges and passes through the picturesque Riverside Park, located on a relatively shallow portion of river suitable for fly-fishing. Downstream, off Maiden Ln., there are many inviting outdoor tables, grills, and a stunning Greek Revival picnic shelter at Island Park. In the woods at the back of the park, an old dirt road, now a walking path, ascends to the Cedar Bend Nature Area, a high, forested slope (also accessible from Broadway via Cedar Bend Dr.) whose view of the city's skyline is partially obscured by oaks and hickories.

Across the river from Island Park, Fuller Park bustles with people playing on its soccer fields, large playground, and its outdoor pool and water slide. From here, the B2B Trail runs east along Fuller Rd. and around the U-M's Mitchell Field and softball diamonds, leading to Gallup Park. The city's most popular park, it has three playgrounds (including a "universal use" one designed to accommodate people with a range of disabilities), grills, tables, a fishing pier, and a canoe, kayak, and paddleboat livery. More than 3 miles of bucolic trails and arched footbridges join a series of small islands, and a pedestrian walkway connects Gallup with its quiet neighbor to the west, the Furstenberg Nature Area. The most ecologically diverse park in Ann Arbor, it contains several rare species of flora native to wetlands, woodlands, prairie, and oak savanna.

Teeming with roller bladers, joggers, and cyclists, the B2B Trail continues from Gallup Park east to Parker Mill County Park, where there is a historic grist and cider mill, and then Forest Nature Area, a wet forest of black maples, hackberries, and rock elms traversed by a boardwalk trail with interpretative signs. A new branch extends all the way to the U-M's Matthaei Botanical Gardens (1800 N. Dixboro, 734–647–7600), providing non-motorized access to its conservatory, gardens, and pathways.

Located north of Michigan Ave. west of Platt, its 626 acres encompass more than four miles of nature trails, a great blue heron rookery, buttonbush swamp, and numerous wetlands, mature woods, and meadows.

North Side: The city park system abounds in wild pockets. Another oak-hickory woods, the Bluffs Nature Area above North Main St. features steeply wooded slopes and trails popular among mountain bikers. On the northwest side of town is Miller Nature Area. Two obscure entrances on Miller west of Newport drop off immediately into a densely overgrown valley. Many small trails switch direction so quickly that disorientation can set in; plunge ahead and you'll eventually emerge in a quiet neighborhood on Arborview. 54-acre Olson Park, at Dhu Varren Rd. and Pontiac Tr. Transformed from a gravel pit, Olson includes wetlands, woods, Traver Creek, and Traver Pond, providing a habitat for many species of native plants, butterflies, songbirds, and migratory waterfowl. It has a half-mile paved path surrounding Traver Pond, a basketball court, a dog park, soccer fields, a playground, a picnic shelter, and a dense net of mountain bike trails

West Side: Hunt Park, atop a glacial hill at the north end of Spring St., offers a panorama of downtown as well as basketball and tennis courts, softball diamonds, and a play area. In the winter it's popular among young sledders, as is Wurster Park south of Madison on the Old West Side. Between Miller and Huron, the large and vibrant West Park has a baseball field, community garden, playground, and a recently renovated band shell that hosts the Ann Arbor Civic Band's summer concert series.

Farther west at Maple Rd., Veterans Memorial Park, 2150 Jackson, (734) 794–623, hosts an outdoor pool, indoor ice rink, and ball diamonds, a winter sledding hill, and the busy Ann Arbor Skate Park (a2skatenark.org).

Fitting in at the county rec center

Becoming a grandmother finally pushed me over the edge. If I had the slightest hope of getting up off the floor after playing with a toddler, something had to be done. It's not that I hadn't tried to get in shape. I owned (and used) the entire set of Sweatin' to the Oldies with Richard Simmons. But somewhere along the line that routine lost its zing, or maybe the VCR broke.

Finally, accompanied by my husband, I went to the Meri Lou Murray Washtenaw County Recreation Center off Washtenaw Ave. on Platt. We joined a wide range of ages and body shapes. Sure, there are those folks who attack the ellipticals with ungodly speed, and others who casually lift those twenty-five-pound dumbbells, but I'm soothed by the knowledge that some are older and slower than me. In other words, I fit in. Everybody fits in there.

James entered our lives shortly after we joined. We figured working with a trainer for a month or two would get us started. Three years later we still meet up with James most weeks, and each time he has some devilish new exercise for us. After warming up on
